Professional Profile

I'm drawn to Product Management, UX, Web3 and Non-Profit.

It all started with Sociology Research, I started compiling pictures for my thesis and I wanted them to look good and properly placed in the UI of the final document as a product. At first, I was mostly concerned with ethnography as my primary method, along with doing observation and interviews.

Later, I learned how important it is to reach out to the right people, get proper scope to apply the results and measure later for further iterations and improvements.
